CHICAGO, August 3, 2017 – The Graham Foundation is pleased to announce over $400,000 in new grants to organizations around the world to support 41 innovative projects engaging original ideas in architecture. Among the funded projects are exhibitions, publications, events, research projects, and site-specific installations and performances. These diverse projects and programs advance new scholarship, fuel creative experimentation and critical dialogue, and expand opportunities for public engagement with architecture and its role in contemporary society.

“This year marks an extraordinary group of projects from organizations around the world working to advance architectural thinking, push the boundaries of the field, and expand into previously underrepresented areas,” says Graham Foundation director Sarah Herda.

This year’s awarded projects were selected from a competitive pool of more than 220 submissions. The 41 funded projects are being undertaken by significant and emerging museums, educational institutions, architectural organizations, and biennials and triennials from around the world in cities such as Paris, Mexico City, Rotterdam, Cleveland, and Chicago, where the Graham Foundation is based. The new grantees join an international network of individuals and institutions that the Graham Foundation has supported through the award of more than 4,300 grants over the past 61 years in its role as one of the most significant funders in the field of architecture.

Among the awarded projects are:

- Projects that explore architecture's roles and functions in the social context, including The Architectural League's publication examining the physical dimensions of the criminal justice system in the built environment as critical spaces of urban infrastructure; the Harvard University Graduate School of Design African American Student Union's 2017 Black in Design Conference, promoting discourse around the agency of the design profession to address and dismantle institutional barriers faced by communities of color; and Storefront for Art and Architecture's exhibition curated by Bryony Roberts, examining marching performance as a medium for community cultural identity and political resistance, from its historical roots to contemporary practices.
- Exhibitions organized by major international and national contemporary art and architecture museums, including the first major US exhibition examining the unique range of forms, embodied identities, and modes of production in the modernist architecture of socialist Yugoslavia, to take place at The Museum of Modern Art, New York; Palais de Tokyo's first US-based off-site exhibition, showcasing emerging artists from France and Chicago, to take place in the Roundhouse by Burnham and Root at Chicago's DuSable Museum of African American History, in partnership with Institut Français and EXPO CHICAGO; continued support for the annual Folly competition at the Socrates Sculpture Park in collaboration with The Architectural League, which challenges entrants with a specific opportunity to address park functions through design, a program the Graham Foundation has funded since its launch in 2011; and the 2017 Serpentine Pavilion designed by Francis Kéré, which features a sheltering canopy to highlight architecture's social function as a focal point for communities.
- Wide-ranging exhibitions and projects undertaken by the country's leading educational institutions, including a celebration of groundbreaking studio thesis work by some of the Cooper Union's leading graduates over the past five decades, from Daniel Libeskind to Elizabeth Diller; the University of Illinois at Chicago School of Art & Art History's international conference devoted to the history of design in Chicago, exploring its modernist tradition cultivated and developed since the late nineteenth century; and publications by the students from the University of California, Los Angeles Department of Architecture and Urban Design, the Rice University School of Architecture, and the University of Florida to advance critical dialogue about architecture and design.
- Support for international and national biennials and triennials, including the catalogue and exhibition guide for the FRONT Exhibition Company's inaugural triennial as the permanent record of its artistic interventions, public programs, and residencies taking place in Cleveland next year; the accompanying publication to Performa's biennial program examining the use of performance as a radical tool to rethink architecture and its agency, goals, and aesthetics; and a project for the 10th edition of the Liverpool Biennial inviting leading international artists and architects to create a series of urban projects that embrace creative invention and encourage the public to engage with the context playfully and critically.

The Funambulist

A print and online magazine dedicated to the politics of space and bodies, it is further complemented by a book series, a blog, and a podcast to bridge the disciplines of architecture and design with those of the humanities.

HARVARD UNIVERSITY-GRADUATE SCHOOL OF DESIGN-NEW GEOGRAPHIES

Cambridge, MA

New Geographies 09: Posthuman

This journal, led by doctoral students, aims to examine the emergence of the geographic, a new but for the most part latent paradigm in design today, in order to articulate it and bring it to bear effectively on the social role of design. Through critical essays and design projects, this project seeks to position design’s agency amid concerns of scale, infrastructure, ecology, and globalization.

HET NIEUWE INSTITUUT-RESEARCH DEPARTMENT

Rotterdam, The Netherlands

Architecture of Appropriation: On Squatting as Spatial Practice

This publication investigates squatting as an architectural practice in order to reexamine notions of vacancy and property, and propose alternative urban and domestic arrangements to the dominant, market-oriented housing policies.

NEW MUSEUM

New York, NY

100 Actions for the Future City (New Museum with Phaidon)

This publication presents an index of ideas, interventions, projects, artworks, and social initiatives from the New Museum’s IdeasCity network of artists, architects, and urban visionaries in support of thriving metropolises. Each act is accompanied by a diagrammatic illustration, offering replicable and scalable maps for readers to implement actions locally.

PERFORMA

New York, NY

Bodyspacemotionthings

A companion to the curatorial initiative presented as part of the Performa 17 biennial, this publication compiles historical and contemporary examples and analyses examining the use of performance as a critical tool to rethink architecture and its agency, goals, and aesthetics. Featuring newly commissioned historical analyses, essays, and portfolios, the book uses the lens of performance to reframe critical questions about the built environment.

PROJECT: A JOURNAL FOR ARCHITECTURE

Brooklyn, NY

Project: A Journal for Architecture (Consolidated Urbanism)

A print and online platform for critical writing and architectural projects, the publication is focused on publishing the work of emerging practices and critics. Now on its seventh issue, it offers the opportunity to present contemporary projects, statements by younger architects, and long-form critical essays to consider the discipline of architecture today.

RICE UNIVERSITY-SCHOOL OF ARCHITECTURE

Houston, TX

PLAT 7.0: Sharing (The Prolific Group)

The latest issue of this journal by students and faculty investigates whether the ubiquitous phrase “Sharing is caring!,” first trademarked in the 1950s by the Salvation Army, is still relevant today. If so, how? And regardless, what do the so-called sharing and platform economies mean for architecture and the built environment?

TERREFORM

New York, NY

UR (Urban Research) 2017

This book series is devoted to speculation about the conditions and the future of the city seeking to become a key venue for both individuals and organizations engaged in progressive urban research, design, and critical advocacy.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, LOS ANGELES-DEPARTMENT OF ARCHITECTURE AND URBAN DESIGN

Los Angeles, CA

POOL: Issue No. 3

Content for this issue of UCLA’s student-lead publication in the Department of Architecture and Urban Design focuses on an expanding definition of architectural work that considers curation as a primary form of cultural production in a culture of high volume content exchange.

UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA-SCHOOL OF ARCHITECTURE

Gainesville, FL

VORKURS: Exquisite Corpse

The second edition of this architecture publication, produced by graduate students at the University of Florida’s School of Architecture, conjures the surrealist folded-paper game to examine how concepts of the collective, authorship, process, and poetry relate to contemporary architectural discourse.

ABOUT THE GRAHAM FOUNDATION

Founded in 1956, the Graham Foundation for Advanced Studies in the Fine Arts fosters the development and exchange of diverse and challenging ideas about architecture and its role in the arts, culture and society. The Graham realizes this vision through making project-based grants to individuals and organizations, and by producing exhibitions, events and publications.

The Graham Foundation was created by a bequest from Ernest R. Graham (1866–1936), a prominent Chicago architect and protégé of Daniel Burnham.

UPCOMING GRANT APPLICATION DEADLINES

Grants to Individuals: September 15, 2017

Carter Manny Award: November 15, 2017

Grants to Organizations: February 25, 2018

THE MADLENER HOUSE

Since 1963, the Graham Foundation has been located in the Madlener House, a turn-of-the-century Prairie-style mansion designed by Richard E. Schmidt and Hugh M. Gardner. Built in 1901–02, it was later renovated by prominent modern architect Daniel Brenner. The 9,000-square-foot historic home now hosts galleries, a bookstore, an outdoor collection of architectural fragments, an extensive non-lending library of grantee publications, and a ballroom, where the Foundation hosts a robust schedule of public programs.

BOOKSHOP

The Graham Foundation's bookshop, designed by Ania Jaworska, offers a selection of new, historically significant, and hard-to-find publications on architecture, art, and design, many of which have been supported by grants from the Graham Foundation.

GALLERY HOURS AND VISITOR INFORMATION

The galleries and bookshop are open to the public Wednesday through Saturday, 11 a.m.–6 p.m. Admission is free. Group tours are available by request.

ACCESSIBILITY

The second-floor galleries and the third-floor ballroom, where events are held, are only accessible by stairs. The first-floor galleries and bookshop are accessible via outdoor lift. Please call ahead to make arrangements.
